

ANCIEN International Research (Assessing Needs of Care In European Nations)

The objective of the research is to analyze Long-Term Care systems (LTC) in EU Member States, establish the current and future number of non self-sufficient elderly in selected EU countries, and develop a methodology to exhaustively investigate the needs and the ongoing and future supply of LTC services in European countries. In this perspective, attention has been given to the potential role of policies and technologies for quality maintenance and upgrade. A series of performance indicators will be identified and the results of the different LTC models will be evaluated.
