

Istituto di Studi e Analisi Economica

Stefania Gabriele

Stefania Gabriele is the Director of the Operational Unit "Microeconomics" of ISAE since 1999. She co-ordinates the ISAE Quarterly Reports on "Public Policies and redistribution" and some Monthly Notes presented by the Institute. She is member of the Steering Committee of ENEPRI, an international network which brings together twenty-four leading national economic policy research institutes from most of the EU-27 countries, and she co-ordinates ISAE participation to international studies and to the elaboration of research projects. She was member of NARS (Nucleo Consulenza Attuazione Linee Guida Regolazione Servizi di Pubblica Utilità), a consultancy board for the Ministries and CIPE (Comitato Interministeriale per la Programmazione Economica- Economic Planning Interministerial Committee) about the regulation and fares of some public services, till 2003. She has more than twenty years of experience in the field of public policies, having analysed both macroeconomic issues - economic forecasting in the specific sector of public finance and, more recently, the problems of global public finance - and microeconomic problems, with studies on Welfare State, income distribution, social mobility, human development. In particular, she is specialist in health systems analysis. She is author and co-author of reports, articles and discussion papers on social and health expenditure and policies, services of general interest, income distribution, social mobility and public finance.

Education

She holds a laurea (graduate degree) in Economics from the University "La Sapienza" of Rome (supervisor Prof. Pierangelo Garegnani).
